Nationwide: United Way 211 Assistance Hotline*

Description of Program and Relief

211 is a free and confidential telephone service operated by United Way. It connects people across the United States to services and resources in their local communities—including financial or other assistance resulting from lost wages due to event cancellations, business closures, and quarantines. Additionally, local United Way affiliates supporting 211 are working with state and local health officials to provide information to the general public about the COVID-19 outbreak.
