Frequently Asked Questions – Senior Center Grab-and-Go Meals Program

What is this resource and how may it help?

New York City is keeping senior centers in the City open for the limited purpose of offering grab-and-go meals to seniors. The City is requesting that before picking up a meal, individuals call their local senior center to ask about availability and timing.

Who has made this resource available?

New York City. The City has not specified the administering agency. However, New York City Department for the Aging—which administers similar programs involving senior centers—will likely run the program.

Who is eligible for this resource?

None specified (open to “seniors”).

Are there any restrictions on the availability of this resource?

None specified (senior centers generally offer services to City residents who are 60 and older).

How do I apply for this resource?

Not applicable.

If I have questions about this resource or how to apply for relief, who can I contact?

Call 311 (212-NEW-YORK outside NYC).

311 Website can be found here.

Find a Senior Center here.

Is this resource available in other languages?

The 311 and Department for the Aging websites offer translated resources in over 100 languages.